Course Closed till Friday

Please remember course is closed till Friday, though if rain persist????

Yes, it's wet – and yes, it's winter.

Not that you needed reminding – the soggy socks and muddy footprints probably did that for you. But with all this moisture around, there's one issue that's really starting to show up across our region: pitch marks.

Now, I know I'm not the only one noticing them—because I'm barely hitting greens these days, so they definitely aren't mine! But seriously, too many pitch marks are being left behind, and it's making our greens look rough and play worse than they should.

So here's the ask:

Every time you grab your putter, take a detour.

Go to where your ball landed and check for a mark. If it left a dent—fix it. It only takes a few seconds, but it makes a massive difference to everyone's game and to the health of the course.

Let's show some love to our greens. After all, they're doing it tough too this winter.

☑ How to Fix a Pitch Mark Properly

- Use a pitch mark repair tool (or a tee if you don't have one).
- Insert the tool at the edge of the pitch mark, not the centre.
- Gently push the surrounding turf toward the centre of the mark.
- Do this all the way around the edge—think of "closing" the hole, not lifting it.
- Do not lift the centre of the mark upward! That damages the roots and delays healing.
- Tap down the surface gently with your putter to smooth it out.

✗ What NOT to Do

- Don't pry upward under the mark like you're digging it out.
- Don't ignore it—a pitch mark left unfixed can take weeks to heal and makes putting miserable for everyone.
